

€5m drive to cut heart risk

NEW exercise programmes to combat heart disease are being developed by researchers.

Experts at Dublin City University are spearheading the €5million PATHway project to develop exercise technology.

Research Minister Damien English said yesterday: "This has the potential to create real, positive benefits."

